NOT A VERY EXCITING GAME

The All Americans Defeat Captain Anson's Players by a Decisive Score.

Indifferent Work of the Chicagos More Than Excellence of Opponents Give the Latter a Victory-Games of the Association.

The Chicago and All-American base-ball tourists arrived here from Cleveland, yesterday morning, and stopped at the New-Denison. The travelers were given no public reception, but during the forenoon many friends of the players called to see them. They were kept busy shaking hands and telling of their great trip around the world until 2 o'clock, when the two teams, in uniform, took carriages, and headed by the When band, paraded the principal down-town streets before going to the ball grounds. The band, located in the grand stand, played two or three appropriate pieces, and promptly at 3:30 o'clock the All-Americans went to the bat and were retired quick order. When John Healy place in the box the spectators' encouraged him with enthusiastic round of applause. However, when the smoke had cleared away at the end of the first inning and Chicago had sent four men around the bases, by virtue of terrific stick work, the crowd smiled, and as one man remarked that Indianapolis had made no mistake when the Egyptian was exchanged for Whitney. It is altogether probable that Healy made no special effort to hold his opponents down, but it was generally thought that he would do his best under the circumstances. Let that be as it may, Mr. Healy's delivery was hit hard and often, and with any kind of ball playing but the worst on the part of the Chicago, the All-Americans would have been easily defeated. Anson made a wretched showing behind the bat and several other members of his team distinguished themselves by poor work in the field. On the other hand the All-Americans played well and batted Tener hard, who never was and never will be a good ball player. Of course the crowd was in fferent as to the result, and there was really little in the game to merit admira-In fact it was rather tiresome, and the spectators were glad when the end came. Mr. Spalding deserves great credit, however, for his enterprise in making the tour around the world, and from that standpoint too much cannot be said in his favor. The game opened with Ryan at the bat, and he remained there only a moment before he led off with a three-base hit and came home on Sullivan's double. Duffy followed with one of the same kind, but was put out trying to reach third base. Anson was satisfied with a single, but Pfeffer was more ambitious and knocked out a two-base hit, and the big captain went to third. Burns, to get even with Ryan, put the ball over Crane's head and took three bases. He was left how took three bases. He was left, however, as the next two men were retired, and Healy looked relieved.
The Chicago team had thus gained a lead that should have given them the game, but Tener lacked speed and control. To make matters worse, the field went to pieces behind him. Carroll reached first on Ryan's high throw, and Wood got a grounder past first, on which he reached second. Fogarty went out at first. On Manning's grounder Carroll was thrown out at the plate, but Earle put the ball over the fence.
Chicago let down in the work at this point. Chicago let down in the work at this point, and although the players continued to bat Healy, the hits were not timely, and the Chicagos failed to get but one more run during the game, which was made in the fifth on Ryan's single and a double by An-

In the fourth the All-Americans scored a run, a base on balls, an error and Earle's single. Five more were added in the seventh, when Tener let down and his support went to pieces. Healy reached first on Ryan's error, and second on a passed ball. Crane struck out and Ward sent a fly ball to Daly. Brown made a single and went to second on slow handling of the ball and poor judgment on the part of the fielder. Carroll followed with a fine two-base drive, sending both runners home and crossed the plate himself when Wood made a single. The latter stole second and scored on Fogarty's hit, who in turn got to third by clever base-running and tallied on Burns's fumble of Manning's grounder. The last named stole two bases but was left by Earle's out. Both sides were blanked in the eighth and ninth and the score remained as follows:

To-Day's Game. The Hoosiers and Toledos will arrive here from Lafayette this morning, and play at the League park this afternoon. The visitors seem to have put up a good game against the League team yesterday, and the contest this afternoon will be one well worth seeing. Boyle and Buckley will be in the points for the home nine, and Smith and Sage will do battery service for Toledo. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

Remarks from Capt. Anson. A Journal reporter had a long talk with Captain Anson, of the Chicago team, yesterday, and found the big first-baseman in a very happy frame of mind. He spoke in glowing terms of the great trip around the world, just ended, and expressed the opinion that it would never be duplicated by any one. It was a grand success, he said, and would be the means, he thought, of introducing base-ball in Australia and England. The people there are fond of all kinds of athletic sports, and that they will organize ball teams is almost a sure thing. "Why," continued Captain Anson, "they told me that within three years they would send a club to America that could beat ours, and I shall not be surprised if they make good their statement. "How about the Chicagos!"

"They will be in the field, never fear. I signed none of the men who were on the trip, and shall not try until we get home. From a player's stand-point I do not like the classification system, and do not know how it will work with our men."

"Are you in the race?" "Always, my boy; and if I get all my men now under reserve to sign Chicago will be around when the pennant is given out at the close of the season. We will beat New York and Boston both out. The latter club made a great mistake when it let Morrill go and kept Kelly. The public is very much down on the latter, and the former is remarkably popular in that city. Boston has too many stiff-kneed old men in her team, and they are rather slow."

"Will you trade Ryan for Fogarty?" "Cannot answer that question just yet. We will have to wait until we get some of our men signed first. Philadelphia wants Ryan, and has made a proposition for him, but the deal is not made yet."

"What do you think of the Indianapolis Well, the Hoosiers ought to play good ball this season. Getzein will strengthen the team, and the club is otherwise strong."
Anson was asked what he thought of the deal between Washington and Indianapolis, but the old man smiled and said nothing. "Healy has pitched good ball for the All-Americans," he said, "and if he is not a "Do any of your men want to get away from Chicago this season?"

the team and me as a manager is false. There never was a ball player who did not want to play in Chicago, and the man who cannot work under me can work under, no manager. No player, however, is necessary to the existence of the Chicago team. If we lose one man we can fill his place with another. In short, the Chicago club will always be in the field no matter what hap-

A Statement from Mr. Spalding. A. G. Spalding, who was here yesterday with the base-ball tourists and was with them when, as has been alleged, they were snubbed by President Harrison in Washington a few days ago, denied that anything of the kind occurred, and said that the published reports of the affair were grossly exaggerated and altogether wrong. "We had an engagement to call upon the President at 11 o'clock," said Mr. Spalding to a reporter last night, "but we received word that the hour would have to be changed, and, if possible, he would like to have us call immediately. All of the players being present we started at once and reached the President's office soon after 10 o'clock. We were kindly received by some one and in a few moments after our arrival we were admitted to the President's room. We did not have to wait an hour, as has been published. President Harrison was very busy, and explained that he had planned an excursion with his wife and some friends, and that it was about time for the party to start. I asked him previously, however, if he could not attend the ball game, but he declined for the reasons already given. He did not say that it was beneath the dignity of a President to witness a game of ball. On the contrary, he said he would be pleased to go if he had not made other arrange-ments; that he often went to the games in Indianapolis and enjoyed them very much. I cannot see how the statement that we were snubbed got started, as there was no foundation for it. Some of the players feel that they were not cordially received, but I do not think as they do, and I have no reason whatever to feel offended at the President on account of the short audience he gave us."

The Game at Lafayette.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, April 18 .- The base-ball season opened here this afternoon with a game between the Indianapolis League team and the Toledos. The clubs arrived about 2 o'clock, and were greeted by a crowd of six or seven hundred. Ten innings were played. Score:

ST. LOUIS, 12; CINCINNATI, 4. CINCINNATI, April 18.-The St. Louis Browns again beat the Cincinnatis to-day, in the second game of the series. The game abounded in lively batting, but the Browns were more fortunate in placing their hits, and they played a better game all around than the Cincinnatis. The fielding of Beard, Holliday and O'Neil was splendid, while

THE FREE KINDERGARTENS.

Reports Showing Them to Be Prosperous and Highly Beneficial-Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Free Kindergarten and Childrens' Aid Society was held at the Meridian-street Methodist Church, yesterday afternoon. It was opened with the reading of a Scripture lesson by Rev. Dr. Cleveland. Mrs. Stanton J. Peelle, president of the society, read an interesting review of the work of the past year. It noted the growth of the work in public interest, and the increase in the strength of the organization during the past year. Figures from last year's report were given, showing six kindergartens in successful operations, with an enrollment for the year of 1,201, and the total expense, including material, furniture, rents, salaries and clothing, of $2,432.93. The growth and progress of each of the old and new schools the past year was sepnoted, and a summary showed the enrollment of the year just ended to be 1690, with a total expense of $3,432.83. The services of Mrs. Blake have been retained at a salary of $1,000 per annum, her mornings being given to the kindergartens and her afternoons to the normal school, which now takes front rank, having three departments, kindergarten, primary and training. All salaried principals of the kindergartens are graduates of the normal school. Acknowledgment of the indebtedness of the society to the official board of Tabernacle Church for past favors was made, and the removal of the normal school to the Pearl-street building and the change of meetings of the society. ing and the change of meetings of the society from weekly to monthly gatherings was noted. The number of visits reported during the year was 3,252.

The superintendents and teachers of the public schools, the report continued, appreciate the value of free kindergarten work, and are in hearty sympathy with it, gladly welcoming the children from kindergartens when they have reached public school age. During the year two hundred children were sent them. The total receipts during the past year, as shown by the treasurer's report, were $3,367.77, derived from sections, $1,810.34, including membership fees, subscriptions of members, and receipts from entertainments given by the sections, as follows: Teas at the homes of Mrs. Daniel Stewart, Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Bingham, and Mrs. Kern, and a concert at Tomlinson Hall. The annual subscriptions and donations, exclusive of the membership, amounted to $957.26. Last June, just before the Chicago convention, there was a match game of base-ball played by the city councilmen against the city officers and aldermen, from which this society realized $145.35. Donations amounting to $109.24 were given as tions amounting to $109,24 were given as thanksgiving offerings by the Sunday-schools as follows: Edwin Ray, Central avenue, Seventh Street, Meridian, Fletcher Place Methodist Episcopal, Tabernacle, First, Fourth and Twelfth Presbyterian; Plymouth Congregational and St. Paul's Episcopal. Miss Kirbys class of the Second Presbyterian gave during the year $60.27, and from the public schools, $159.90 was received. Tuitions in the normal school, diplomas and collections in the kindergartens aggregated $192.25. The society meetings and of the recent Fræbel collections at entertainment went to the committee. Acknowledgment of numerous Christmas donatious were made. For the special success of the Pearl street kindergarten credit is given to the Helping Hand Society, and there were numerous mentions of liberal individual donations. A house-keepers' class has been organized at the Pearl-street school, but more room is needed to make it a success. The conclusion of the report was an earnest appeal in favor of contin-ued and increased work in behalf of the organization here, and hearty congratula-tions over what had been already accom-

Mrs. E. A. Blaker, superintendent of the society, made a full report, setting forth the use and necessity of the society and the growth and improvement in its work during the past year, and making grateful acknowledgment to contributors. At the close of this year there were four departments in the Normal school, seven free kindergartens with twenty-nine divisions, a primary department, and a house-keeping school with six classes. The total enrollment from April 19, 1888, to April 18, 1889, including kitchen, garden or housekeeper's class, kindergarten and normal school, was 1,842, distributed as follows: school, was 1,842, distributed as follows:

Quite a number of children passed from the kindergartens to the Roman Catholic Church schools. Fifteen pupils have been graduated from the teen pupils have been graduated from the normal school during the past year, and there were many calls for teachers. But six deaths among the children have been reported during that time.

The remainder of Mrs. Blaker's report was made up of references to indi-vidual contributors whose liberality has tended to make the work of the year a success, and contained a good many details of the results accomplished. Extracts from visitors' reports were given, showing the good effects of the work on both parents and children. In concluding it, she expressed her belief that the passage of the kindergarten bill will greatly increase the training-schools next year. She extended a cordial invitation to the public to visit the schools and see what good they are ac-

MEN OF THE LOYAL LEGION

Another Meeting at Which Companions Exchanged Heartfelt Greetings.

They Received New Members, Listened to an Address, and Around the Board Speeches Enhance the Evening's Pleasure.

The Loyal Legion, Commandery of the State of Indiana, met last night at the Bates House, in regular monthly meeting. The following gentlemen were taken into membership-For the first class, D. F. Allen, Crawfordsville, second lieutenant, "We are waiting for you," said Glasscock to Anson, yesterday, "and we will make it pleasant for you when we meet. Wish you would catch when you play us. We would just walk from first to second and then beat Indianapolis, major, Eighteenth Indiana; David N. Foster, Ft. Wayne, captain, Eighty-third New York; Wm. J. Richards, Indianapolis, major, Eighty-first Indiana; Irvin Robbins, Indianapolis, major, Onehundred-and-twenty-third Indiana; Chas. Thomas, Crawfordsville, major surgeon, Twenty-fifth Indiana; and of the second class, the son of an officer, Dr. Dan A. Thompson, of Indianapolis. W. R. McKeen, of Terre Haute, was unanimously elected as a member of the third class, as a civilian who had rendered extraordinary services during the war. Gen. Lew Wallace presided, and there were present as guests from without the State Maj. Myron W. Reed, of Denver; Capt. John R. Manchester, of Omaha; Capt. R. P. Rifenberick and Lieut.-Col. G. M. Finch, of Cincinnati. There were in attendance from Indiana, outside this city, Col. I. J. Elstun, Capt. Henry Campbell, Capt. Geo. W. Brown, Dr. Charles Thomas and Capt. William Heron, of Crawfordsville; Capt.

James Ostrander and Dr. Weist, of Richmond; Capt. J. N. Dresser, of Lafayette;
Capt. J. H. Lindley, of Terre Haute; Dr. G.

Perry read a personal experence as a member of the Sixty-ninth Indiana, on the Mississippi, below Vicksburg, preceding the strategic movements of General Grant, which resulted in the capture of that stronghold and the splitting of the Southern Confederacy. The title of the paper was appropriate, being "The Entering Wedge." The paper was excellent, and the Colonel, at the close, was warmly ap-plauded and congratulated. A ballot was taken showing the following preference for officers of the commandery to be elected

Reed occupying the head of the table, with Lieut. Peck at the other end of the mahogany. There were no formal toasts and responses, but each person as called upon by Gen. Wallace spoke according to his own mind. The first speaker was Major Myron W. Reed, of Denver. He said: "Not the least pleasant memory of my visit to this city will be this reunion. Our commandery in Colorado is about a year and a half old, and numbers 107. We meet on the first Tuesday night of every month. on the first Tuesday night of every month, our companions coming 300, 400 and even 500 miles to attend. I value greatly v/hat such gatherings will be to our children and our children's children. We are not building only for ourselves to-night, but we are building for those who shall come after us. I think I can see, down a hundred years, our childrens' children coming together with an added love to the flag because of what we have been permitted to do. I am aware that statistics are misleading. I remember in Buffalo last summer a man got up and showed statistics about the relation of intoxicating liquor to crime—and I spoke right after him. [Laughter]. He had made a dismal picture of the situation, and I told of the experience of a man in Denver who went into the jail and poor-house to find out the relation of poverty to crime. He went into one prison and was conversing with a prisoner. 'Well, my man what brought you here?' he inquired, and the prisoner said, 'two policemen! 'No,' said the statistician, 'I don't mean that; what relation has intoxicating liquor to your being here? 'It has everything to do with it,' said the prisoner; 'they were both drunk.'

"Two years ago I went to the reunion of my regiment at Tecumseh, Mich. On the way at a cross-station I sat side by side with a man evidently a farmer. After a few minutes waiting he began singing in my ear in in a low voice: 'How the same ignorance prevails. The Alsatia, of the Anchor line, from Gibraltar April 1, reached this port to-day. Her officers had seen no trace of the lost vessel nor of her passengers. and tasteless and I then recognized him as the sergeant of Company E, who had often, as I remembered when the day was heavy, the mud deep and the sky cheerless, encouraged the boys by that song. [Laughter.] We went to Tecumseh and walked down to the green. There was the platform under the same trees, and the girls were singing the same songs their mothers had sung in 1862—'Brave boys are they, gone at their country's call.'
"Now, I think those children can hardly realize what their mothers did, when they saw husbands, fathers and brothers march away to war. I looked over the boys gathered there, a few more than a hundred, and a good many of them walked wobbly. A great many of them had the dust of the road of life in their hearts. We are no longer young. It is a long But, perhaps, there are compensations as we stand here with the weight of years, and remember that we were soldiers under George H. Thomas. [Cheers.] And it is enough for any one of us to have served under the command of Abrahave served under the command of Abraham Lincoln, the great. [Applause.] To me this meeting is a great pleasure, there can be no greater, and I thank you."

Speeches were also made by Col. G. M. Finch, Capt. R. R. Refenberick, Capt. Leighty, Capt. David F. Allen, Col. James B. Black, Capt. D. N. Foster, Maj. W. J. Richards, Major Irwin Robbins, Dr. Charles L. Thomas, Capt. Benj. Smith, Dr. Geo. H. Kemper, Capt. David Wilson, Dr. J. L. Thompson, Gen. R. S. Foster, Capt. James Ostrander, Dr. Weist and Dr. Pearson. These speeches were all highly apson. These speeches were all highly appreciated by the companions. many of them being seasoned with anecdotes of the days when they went soldiering. Col. G. M. Finch recited "Hans Breitman gif a barty" and Capt. Horace McKay led in "file firing" an exercise that was entered nto with great zeal by the veterans. Dr. Dan Thompson sung solo of a number of patriotic songs in which everybody came in strong, and the evening ended with "Auld Lang Syne," with hands clasped about the board. Commander Wallace announced that at the May meeting the companions were expected to bring their wives. Knit Goods Manufacturers.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The manufacturers of knit goods in the West now have an organization for the promotion of trade in-terests. It was formed this afternoon at the Grand Pacific Hotel, where twenty-six representatives of manufacturers in nearly all the Western States met. The organiza-tion is to be known as "The Knit Goods Manufacturing Association," and it is said to practically include in its membership all the Western producers of knit goods, hosiery, etc. A constitution and by-laws were formulated, and at another meeting, on the last Thursday in June, they will be submitted for final adoption. The association elected as president John W. Hart, of S. B. Wilkins & Co., Rockford, Ill., and for secretary C. E. Ovenshire of the St. Paul secretary, C. E. Ovenshire, of the St. Paul knitting-works, St. Paul, Minn.

Bank Swindled Out of $2,500.

Stoux City, Ia., April 18.—A shrewd swindle was perpetrated April 9, by which the Sioux City Savings Bank lost $2,500. A man calling himself B. Simpson on that day got that amount of money on a draft purporting to be made by the National Bank of Tennessee on the National Bank of the Republic, of New York, for $8,000. Yesterday it transpired that the draft is a Dean Bros.' Steam Pump Works INDIANAPOLIS, IND. DUPLEX PUMP.

forgery. Simpson came to the bank with a genuine letter of introduction from Rev. George Knox, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this city. He had attended Mr. Knox's church a month ago, and later joined the Presbyterian Church at Ponca, Neb., on a forged letter of dismissal from a church at Bristol, Tenn. His story was complete and plausible in every detail.

The Standard's Latest Purchase. LIMA, O., April 18.—The remaining stocknot sell out yesterday to the Standard, were to-day notified that if they wish to sell they could obtain $70 per $100 for their stock, and, accordingly, they walked up to the bank and got the cash for their stock. Certified checks to the amount of $785,000 passed through one of the banks to-day in payment of the property. This not only gives the Standard control, but makes them owners of the territory. The Union Oil Company sold their territory to the Standard to-day. It comprises leases on 1,550 acres with a daily production of 400 barrels. The price paid was $27,000.

OTTAWA, Ill., April 18.—Mrs. W. H. Wallace, widow of Gen. W. H. Wallace, who was killed at Shiloh, and eldest daughter of the late Judge T. Lyle Dickey, died at her residence in this city, last night, from paralysis, after an illness of several months. She will be buried at the family cemetery to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

CINCINNATI, April 18.—B. Cavagna, widely known to all business men of Cincinnati, died last night, aged ninety. He had lived in Cincinnati sixty years, and nearly all of that time was in business at the same place, on Fifth street near Watnut.

Bound and Left on a Railway Track. FLINT, Mich., April 18.-Mrs. Amanda Wallington, who claims Jackson for her home, was found near the coal yard of E. B. Clapp & Co., in this city, at an early hour this morning, bound and gagged, and left lying across a railroad track to be run over by a train. She reports having been compelled at the muzzle of a revolver to give up $60 which she had on her person. She was then chloroformed, gagged, bound and left in the condition in which she was found. There is no clew to the thieves and would-be murderers.

No News of the Danmark's Passengers. NEW YORK, April 18.—The stereotyped reply "no news," was given to all inquirers after the unfortunate passengers and crew of the Danmark at the office of the Thingvalla line this morning.

Mr. Gordon's Horses to Be Sold. CLEVELAND, O., April 18.-W. J. Gordon, the owner of Gordon Glen, the immense stock farm at Glenville, came to a final decision to-day to sell out complete. Among the famous horses owned by Mr. Gordon and which will be disposed of are Guy and Clingstone. Shocking Effect of Subway Electricity. Boston Traveller.

A serious and most alarming accident occurred on the Boylston-street bridge, at the Back Bay, about 10:30 Tuesday morning, George Lenox, coachman for the Hon. A. A. Ranney, of Chester square, was driving his employer's span of horses, attached to the family carriage, across Boylston bridge. As the horses were turned to cross the street, it appears from the account given that they stepped upon the conduit con-taining the electric wires of the West End railroad. Suddenly both animals fell with horrible screams to the pavement, where they lay perfectly rigid. With the assist-ance of Captain Conway and his men of ladder company No. 15, the driver loosed the horses from the carriage and drew them off the tracks. They immediately sprang to their feet, and, with piercing screams, broke furiously away from the men, avoiding all attempts at capture. One of the pair was at last found in Brookline, and the other near his stable in the city.

Private Bath-Rooms of Prominent Women.

New York Letter in Kansas City Journal. The society woman depends greatly on luxurious bathing to renew her strength. The Turkish bath must be taken outside the home, but the bath-rooms in some of the wealthy houses give evidence of their costliness and beauty of the part they play in the daily economy. Mrs. Henry Clews's bath-room is a grotto of onyx walls, floor, ceiling, basin tub, all being of the sculptured stone. Distilled and perfumed waters flow at a touch: it is like a cool cave where flow at a touch; it is like a cool cave where Undines sport, and no Monte Cristo could project a thing more fanciful and costly. That of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is very beautiful. The walls are of mirrors, over which run painted vines of morning glory and passion flowers, forming an arbor suggestive of the bower where Venus bathed, and the reflections doubtless furnish Titanesque hints of attending nymphs.

Back-Sliding Indians.

Sitka Letter. A curious incident in connection with the attempt to Christianize the Alaskan Indians here occurred to-day. It is quite generally known that the Presbyterian board of missions maintains a mission school here, and has a sort of industrial annex patronized by Elliott F. Shepard. A small building, used as a carpenter and shoemaker shop, is emblazoned with a big sign, "Elliott F. Shepard Industrial Build-ing." To-day thirteen Indians, who have been attending the mission school and were regarded as proselytes, were baptized and admitted into the Græco-Russian Church by Father Denscov, the parish priest. I sought out some of these Indians to ascertain their motives for this remarkable course. One of the most intelligent of them replied that "when Russian Indian sick the priest come and see him and do for him, but when mission Indian sick no one come near him."

WESTERN FARM MORTGAGES.

Some Facts and Figures That Contradict the Assertions of Free-Trade Alarmists. American Economist.

We are enabled, find the data we have already published, to marize with substantial exactness tigage indebtedness ent of the morte Western farms. It is quite importan ...at the real facts be known, so that no false alarm shall be ereated and no social discontent shall be engendered. The most absurd statements gendered. The most absurd statements have been propagated for political effect. As is well known, it has been positively asserted, and wickedly and falsely as well, that the Western farmers of this country are generally bankrupt, are losing money and being eaten up by mortgages and taxes. All this bogus calamity has been cooked up for the purpose of charging it to protection. We fortunately have official figures enough, from the States forming the great central wheat and corn belt, to set at rest all these vicious inventions. The size and quality of the fabrications in this line may be learned from a single example. During the campaign the New York Times asserted that the farm mortgages in Illinois amounted to $620,000,mortgages in Illinois amounted to $620,000,000; the St. Louis Republic put it at $3,000,000,000. It now appears from the report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, that the total mortgage indebtedness on Illinois farms is $123,733,098. Of this sum $20,633,072 is for deferred payments on the purchase money.
The indebtedness for loans is only 10.52 per cent, on the census valuation of 1880, and the average rate of interest 6.90 per cent. annum. And, what will grieve and perplex the free-trade alarmists, 90 per cent of this mortgage debt is owned in the Stat of Illinois. From Nebraska a gentleman of intelligence writes us: 'Fifteen years ago central and western Nebraska were an unbroken prairie. Today they are covered with fine farms, with industrious and energetic farmers located thereon. Lands in this State have rapidly increased in value, and in order to make improvements farmers have rather in-creased than diminished the amounts loaned on their places." From Minnesota a prominent State officer

"All our farmers, nearly, commenced without any capital, and were obliged to mortgage their lands in order to build and improve. The low price of wheat and other farm produce, all over the world, makes it still harder for the English farmer, though in a free-trade country. I think a just and equitable protective tarift, without discrimination against the farmer, will greatly help the farmers of this State.' From Iowa, and officer in the Department of State assures us, among other things,

"The State of Iowa was never more prosperous than it is at the present time, and the people of Iowa, and especially the farmers, seem to be well satisfied to con-tinue the same 'evils' that the 'lecturer' refers to as 'tariff taxes.'"
In Michigan, we learn from the current report of the Bureau of Labor that there are 90,803 farms. Their assessed valuation is $194,854,633. They are mortgaged to the amount of $37,456,372, being 19.2 per cent. of their assessed valuation.

In Ohio, it was charged that the mortgage indebtedness was $700,000,000. Mr. J. R. Dodge, of the Bureau of Agriculture, states that the conclusions of an investiga-

"That one-fourth of the farms of Ohio are incumbered, either slightly or more heavily, in part to secure debts to neighboring farmers or to retired farmers living in town. It is questionable whether much more than a tenth of the real value of Ohio farms is mortgaged. Ohio farmers are rich. I fully believe, from an extensive and special knowledge of the financial situation of Ohio farmers, that their investments in town or village property, in bonds or rail-road stock, and shares in manufacturing and mining enterprises, exceed in value the entire indebtedness of farmers, whether covered by mortgage or not."
Mr. Atkinson, the well-known economic writer, took occasion to investigate the matter from the side of the Mortgage Loan companies. His conclusions were published in Bradstreet's for Nov. 12, 1887. Here are some of them: "The reduction in the rate of interest has been from 10 per cent. annual interest and 10 per cent. commission on a five years' mortgage to an average of 61-2 to 71-2 per cent. at the present time, without commis-

"Many of those to whom loans were first made are now lenders through the same

"The present conditions indicate widespread and almost universal prosperity."

All the testimony is of the highest character, and these conclusions are reached by sober-minded, reflecting men. They ought to satisfy and quiet the professional agitat-ors who are trying to do the work of the Cobden Club.

The farmer, as a rule, knows very well that individually, he is in no danger of a foreclosure and the sheriff. It will be some comfort to him to know that his neighbor in the next county is exempt from the like visitations. The "lecturers" of our friends, the grangers, ought to rejoice that their own occupation is gone, and cease their whining, which at best is only an imputa-tion upon the manliness of the Western farmer.

Exposing a Campaign Lie.

During the presidential campaign, the free-trade papers, in order to show that the free-trade papers, in order to show that the country was going to ruin under protection, greatly exaggerated the number of Western farm mortgages. The New York Times, for example, placed the amount of such mortgages in Illinois at $620,000,000, and the St. Louis Republic at $3,000,000,000. The report of the Illinois Bureau of Labor Statistics, however, shows that the total mortgage indebtedness on the farms of the State is only debtedness on the farms of the State is only $123,733,098, which is only about 10.52 per cent. on the census valuation. Of this mortgage debt; moreover, 90 per cent. is held in the State of Illinois.

Be sure the water is at a boiling point before putting into it the vegetables to be cooked. If it is cold or lukewarm the freshness and flavor will soak out into the water. Place the saucepan over the hottest part of your stove, so that it will boil as quickly as possible, and be careful that the boiling process does not cease until the contents are thoroughly cooked and ready to be dished.
